

Red Brick School House built about 1927. Closed in 1931. About ten miles north of Heber. Several homes and a hotel were in this area.

The Keetley mining area was first prospected in 1875-1876 but the mining industry did not become a reality until about 1920. Then identical frame cottages were built on the brow of the wind swept hill. Other cottages were located further up the canyon.

Chronic Non-Compliance

SALT LAKE-The Keetley Water Company has been named among other water companies throughout the state as a Chronic Water system, by the Utah Department of Health.

The Utah Department of Health is releasing the names of systems that have chronically neglected to meet water quality standards. "Every 90 days, we've released the names of systems which have failed to notify their customers that the system did not meet necessary water quality standards in the previous three months," said Gayle Smith, Director of the Utah Department of Health's Bureau of Public Water Supplies.

"Utah law requires that when water systems do not meet standards, the customers must be notified," Smith added. "We are giving these chronically violating systems priority status for enforcement action," said Smith.

Enforcement action may take the form of a rating drop that would change a system's status to "non-approved" which may affect funding for building, legal action and/or financial penalties.

The Department of Health urges users of water from these systems to contact the management of the systems and encourage the managers to correct system problems as soon as possible.
